

Isabella del Bono

THE MOST EXCLUSIVE HAND MADE
IRON JEWELRY WITH PRECIOUS STONES

"I find in your jewels the characteristics of what characterises the best of italian products.

Beautiful shapes, harmonious proportions, quality of production but also an important narrative quality which in todays sterile commercialised world is quite rare."

Alba Cappellieri

Director in Jewellery Design at Polidesign • www.designdelgioiello.it • and member of the Royal Society of Jewellery Historians.

"Very few in the world have managed to re-interpret the heraldic jewel with your elegance and quality.

I refer to the shapes that are re-interpreted with a modern look as well as using a combination of poor materials like iron with noble ones such as gold and precious stones which shows not only excellent goldsmithery but also an as yet unseen original trend."

*Iron: a material which rained from the sky.
In our bodies and at the center of the earth.*

A metal with innumerable qualities, iron has been portrayed as a magical element since prehistoric times owing to its astral origins. In fact, it was originally discovered in meteorites by the ancients.

Shiny and durable, iron is a symbol of divinity, a force as mighty as a sword, capable of protecting, like a shield or armor against negative vibrations.

Isabella del Bono has rediscovered the allure of iron, combining it with precious materials to create an irresistible mix that embraces the body and infuses it with positive energy. Keeping an eye to the esoteric, her jewelry is unique, entirely designed and expertly hand-crafted in Italy using rare ancient artisanal techniques.

IdB™ LIFE TREE CUFF BRACELET

*The unique processes: value.
The common thread: class.
The collections: unmistakable.*

IdB collections reflect the creativity of Countess Isabella del Bono, who grew up at her family's estates near Parma and then rushed off to the United States, splitting her time between Miami and New York. Once back in Italy, she "fabricated" an activity which she still dedicates all her heart and talent to today: designing jewelry with iron as the star. Guided by an ancestral taste for balance and essential forms, del Bono proposes modern coats of arms, fired enamels and miniatures. With an early concentration on heraldry, she has recently moved towards a rediscovery of designs and symbols to adorn numerous other items.

The IdB Chevalier ring in iron and yellow gold is a symbol of del Bono's poetic forte: the union of past and present in unique modern objects with indisputable elegance.

Each IdB jewelry piece is truly unique – a small sculpture made entirely by the hands of del Bono and experienced master goldsmiths who continue to use demanding, ancient artisan techniques. Each piece is painstakingly forged from a block of solid iron, ground and worked for several days, finished with burin engraving or repoussage, then enriched with chiseling and various settings. It's an art made even more difficult due to the large difference in the melting points of gold and iron. Knowing how to solder the two is a talent possessed by very few.

IdB: a few pieces for the chosen few.

Idb is pleased to respond ad hoc to our clients' desires, offering those with taste and style many variations on a theme through different "material" processes: from the galuchât technique to custom burin engraving; from chiseled gold to repoussage or even original settings for special stones.

Important and near-impossible to find today, enamel miniatures from IdB are made with an ancient firing technique. Coats of arms, initials, symbols and flags come to life just as they did under the Russian goldsmiths of Fabergé.

Timeless pieces, full of ancestral strength and charged with energy. The style is all hers, for unmistakable, inimitable IdB jewelry.
